DESCRIPTION

Situated on the main road the Eight Bells is a delightful country pub located in the affluent village of Abbotsley. The pub is the only amenity in the village so there is scope to continue the good work of the current landlord and really cement its place in the local community.

Pub Layout

The Eight Bells consists of a cosy bar area with a large open fireplace, a small restaurant area to the left of the bar which seats circa 20 people, and a games area to the right with a dartboard. There is a fully equipped catering kitchen also on the ground floor. Externally, there is a covered drinking area with 18 benches and a good-sized children's play area. The car park is of a good size and represents an opportunity for events and extra seating if required.

TRADING STYLE

Eight Bells is a community local that has been well-established in the village by the outgoing licensee. The food offering here is vital and pulls in both regular's from the village and customers from further afield. A good mid week food offering should keep trade stable in off-peak periods. The pub has a good outside space that should be utilised in warmer months and provides great scope to attract families with it's outdoor play area. There is potential to incorporate a darts teams into the rhythm of the week here within the separate games area. Cask ales are also well received at the Eight Bells.
