DESCRIPTION

The Manor Castle is situated on the outskirts of Sheffield, close to the historic Sheffield Manor Lodge ruins and visitor attraction. Also known locally as Manor Castle, Sheffield Manor Lodge was originally built around 1516 within what was then a large deer park to the southeast of the city. Today, the attraction draws a steady flow of tourists to the area, benefiting nearby businesses including the pub. The pub occupies a prominent corner position on Manor Lane, within a community that features a mix of new-build and redeveloped housing. The area benefits from excellent transport connections. Sheffield railway station provides frequent services to Manchester, Liverpool and Leeds. The nearby M1 motorway is just fifteen minutes away, offering direct routes towards Leicester and Leeds.

Pub Layout

The Manor Castle is traditionally decorated throughout. Upon entry to the pub, via the front door, you are greeted by a small hall area. A door to your right leads you into the main trading area which has a mixture of fixed seating and soft furniture and is the main gathering area for locals. This area has a large open fire for those cosy winter nights and is in keeping with the traditional aspect of the pub. A central bar services both the main room and the second trade space complete with a pool table. Back through to the lobby area, doors lead to the ladies and gents toilets with another door leading you through to the additional trading spaces, here you will find two rooms boasting plenty of mixed and loose seating, including a lovely tap room with wood panelling. Although the Manor Castle does not have a car park this does not impact the trade of the pub as the community is within a short walking of the pub and parking is located near by.

TRADING STYLE

The pub operates as a wet-led venue with a strong community focus. It enjoys consistent support from local residents throughout the year, as well as increased trade from tourists during peak seasons. The retail offer flexes to reflect seasonal demand, ensuring there is always something to appeal to a broad customer base. Regular activities include pub games and local sports teams, alongside a well-established weekly rhythm of events such as live entertainment, DJ and karaoke nights, “Open the Box” promotions, and community-led events. A strong value-led drinks offering is complemented by a selection of premium lagers, as well as a range of wines and spirits, providing choice for all tastes while maintaining an accessible price point.
